Bar is Raised for the David Barton Gym: Rizzo Group Obtains BSA Approvals

Rizzo Group LLP succeeded in obtaining the necessary BSA approvals for a Physical Cultural Establishment for the David Barton Gym in Manhattan's upper-east side. When the facility originally opened in 1995, Mr. Barton's team experienced several delays at the BSA, so they knew they needed change. The team brought in Rizzo Group LLP which reviewed the project and developed an approval plan that included land use, fire code and community relations strategies. In the end, the Community Board, Fire Department and the Board of Standards and Appeals approved the project and the acclaimed gym renewed its physical cultural establishment permit.

About Rizzo Group

Rizzo Group is one of the leading building code, zoning, and land use consulting firms in New York City. Known for years as Charles Rizzo & Associates, and then 'CRA,' today, the firm is now called Rizzo Group to reflect the firm's team approach to building consulting. Their professional staff of architects, land use attorneys and engineers work with owners, development groups, design firms, and construction companies in order to obtain all necessary government approvals for any given structure.
